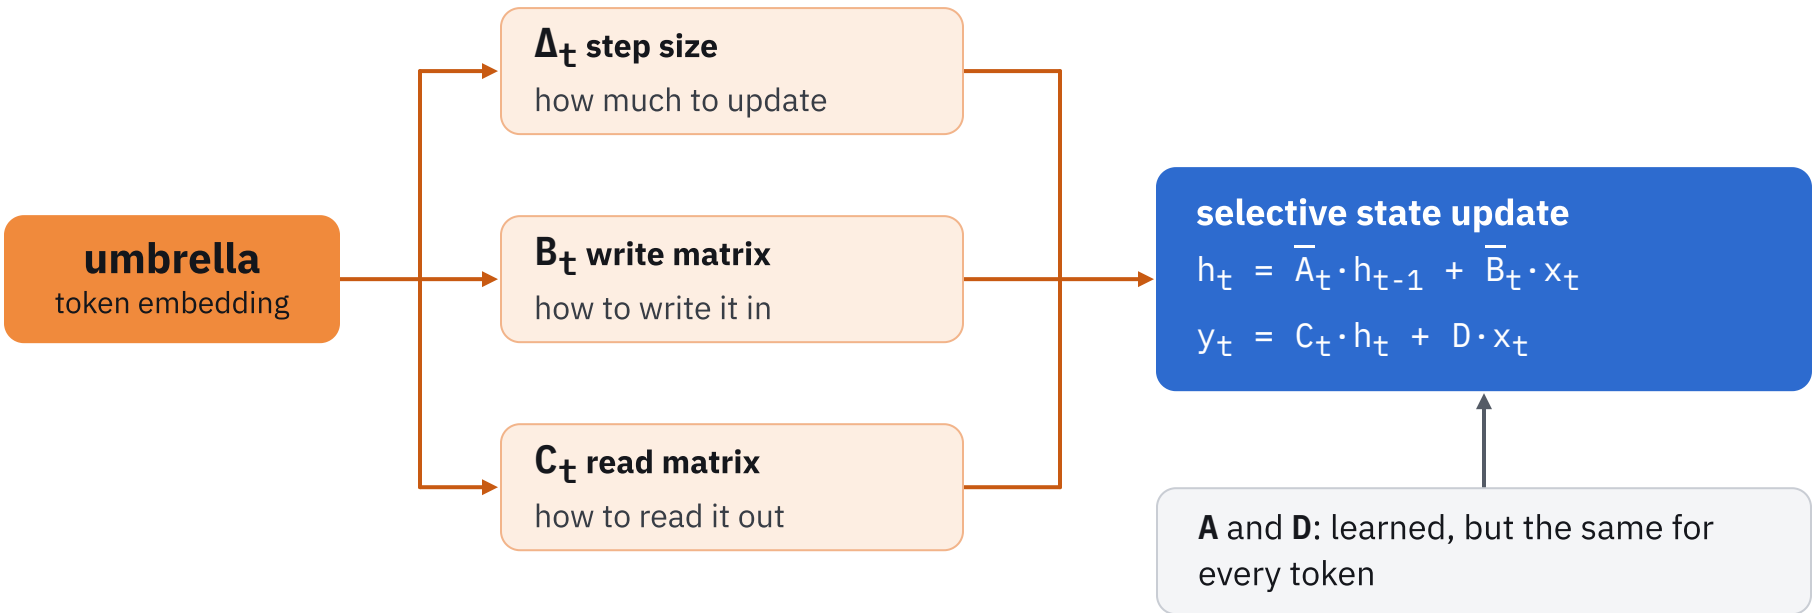

FIGURE 5

Selection: each token chooses its own Δ, B and C

Three small linear layers turn the token into its own Δ, B and C. “umbrella” can take a large Δ and write itself firmly into the state; “her” can take a small Δ and barely touch it. A stays fixed: its job is to carry the past, while B and C decide what goes in and what comes out.